WELCOME TO
IF:GATHERING

We're so glad that you've joined us – and women all over the globe – for this gathering. Women are coming together across generations and denominations under the name of Jesus. Amazing!

Our hope is that you would be inspired and compelled to take Jesus to your places and your people. Our heart at IF is to create tools that gather, equip and unleash women right where they are.

We'd like to tell you about some of these resources, so you can engage with IF:Gathering all year long...

IF:Table is a monthly meal and conversation. We provide four questions each month. You invite a few women, break bread and learn about God and one another through community. You can read more about IF:Table on the following pages.

IF:Equip is a simple tool that has gathered an online community of tens of thousands of women who encourage and challenge one another. Each day we dive into Biblical truths, with a video and a few questions for processing. You can read more about IF:Equip on the following pages.

IF:Pray is when we gather around the world and humble ourselves before God in prayer. We believe God hears and answers prayers and we want our focus to be a time of seeking the Lord in this way in our communities. Stay tuned for more information about this year's IF:Pray gathering.

Thank you for coming. We hope that it will be used for the glory of God and the good of others.

IF: EQUIP

IF:Equip is a tool designed to help you spend time in scripture and unpack Biblical truths in community. Five days a week we dive into a book of the Bible or a passage of scripture around a central theme. We provide questions for journaling, processing and spiritual growth a new video every day that helps give insight into the passage.

There is something so beautiful and powerful about women from all over the world gathering together in the Word – encouraging, challenging, and praying for one another.

“It is a great way to start my day. Love hearing different women discuss God’s word. As a church planter’s wife, it is such a great tool to be able to share with other women. Lots of women ask, ‘How do I start reading the Bible?’ It is such a great resource to point them to use!” – Heather

“Loving it. It has been really effective in getting me in the word more than other studies. It is simple, I LOVE journaling, and I look forward to the short clips.” – Amber

While we adore getting together here at the IF:Gathering, we know that so much of our relationships take place within the context of homes and around tables. That's why we dreamed up the idea of IF:Table. The goal here is simple: two hours, four questions, six women.

We based these numbers on Acts 2:46, which says, "And day by day, attending the temple together and breaking bread in their homes, they received their food with glad and generous hearts."

It doesn't have to be anything fancy or orchestrated. It could be a potluck or takeout or breakfast food. But what matters is that you pull up chairs to the table and ask questions that reveal where you are at in a real, authentic way. Our hope is that as women come together at the table, they are able to be known and get to know others and live out discipleship in an environment that is safe and personal. Each IF:Table has a flavor of its own because every woman brings her own uniqueness – which we love!

We provide the questions every month and sometimes a recipe or a story to go along with inspiration for gathering around the table. Our prayer is that as you invite people into your home, you will find that you can welcome one another to follow after Jesus in the ordinary, everyday lives that you lead in the places God has put you.

AFRICA NEW LIFE

www.africanewlife.org

Arriving in Rwanda was like arriving home. I grew up in Nigeria, another African country, and my parents still live there. I wasn't shocked or amazed by the dirt roads, women carrying loads on their heads, toddlers backing babies (or carrying machetes), or even the juxtaposition of the level of comfort that was available to the wealthy few against the sheer poverty of the majority. In fact, before going on this trip, I was a little bit skeptical about the idea of child sponsorships. Are lives really changed? Does life really change?

I'm not sure about other organizations, but with Africa New Life, I got to see firsthand that it definitely does. With every child we met, and every home visit we did, there were stories of hope and redemption that flowed out. The gratitude everyone expressed was never just for themselves, but for how the sponsorship allowed them to help their community and their country. There is a saying that goes, "If you give a man a fish, you feed him for a day. If you teach a man to fish, you feed him for a lifetime." Someone in Rwanda added another line to that: "If you teach him how to own the pond, he can feed his whole community." Let's just say, by the end of the trip, I was a believer in Africa New Life and their child sponsorship program.

As a teenager eager to build a better life for herself, Tavi* followed her boyfriend to Mumbai in search of a job, but Tavi's boyfriend betrayed her and sold her to a brothel in Kamathipura, one of the largest red-light areas in Asia. She endured humiliation and abuse for over three years. "It was a very painful time for me. I was extremely unhappy. They [the brothel keepers] would always keep us inside and we never knew what was happening in the outside world." At first, Tavi tried to fight back by refusing to see customers, but the owner beat her. Most days, Tavi was forced to see up to six customers. She tried to run away but her every move was watched to make sure she didn't escape. In August 2011, a team of IJM staff and police rescued Tavi and two other young women. Tavi spent a year living at an aftercare shelter where she learned to make jewelry, took beautician courses and regularly met with her IJM social worker, Sheela. Today, Tavi earns a steady income at a handicrafts company, and lives in a transitional home for survivors of sex trafficking. "I never gave up. I was always hoping that one day, I will be out of this place and God has changed my life fully," Tavi shared.

In Guatemala, our missional farmers and partners are growing coffee that creates funds to build homes for single mothers in the indigenous rural village of San Juan Moca. In Panama, our missional farmers are directly funding 87 missionaries around the globe, 17 of which, are women. When you choose Phoenix Roasters specialty grade, direct-trade coffee, your choice matters. The cause of Christ will shine through this cycle of relief, by significantly increasing the living wage to workers on coffee farms, working to stop domestic abuse, strengthening families, and ending homelessness locally and around the world. THE GIVING KEYS

LOS ANGELES

“As a nurse, I am always inspired by anything that has meaning. I purchased a key with the word FAITH on it. Yesterday I gave my key away to a 32 year old breast cancer patient. She had just finished chemo and had her final surgery and spoke of how this journey has made her faith stronger. She spoke of how she used to pray only when she needed a blessing, now she prays everyday not only for herself, but also for others who need her prayers. She had tears in her eyes and promised to pass on the key when she meets the right person to receive it. Also, she thanked me for choosing her... What a simple and wonderfully unique gift you have created. The best gifts are those you can pass on and share with others.”

- Nurse and Advocate for The Giving Keys

The Giving Keys exists to employ those affected by homelessness to make products that carry words of inspiration like hope, strength, dream or courage. Wear and embrace your word, then give it away to a person you feel needs the message more than you.

JOYN

JOYN is a socially conscious fashion brand producing women's accessories that are 100-percent handmade; from spinning and weaving of cotton, to hand block printing using ancient Indian techniques and finally stitching beautiful JOYN products. We have two foundational beliefs: that work is essential to a meaningful life and that community is essential to a joyful life. Our mission is to create sustainable jobs for the most marginalized in the world by entering into community with them and living among them. We purposefully move into broken communities and seek out these people, because we believe in empowering, not enabling. THIS is why JOYN exists, to create community and a culture that empowers and dignifies. We put work into the hands of those who deserve it, who most need it, but who have never had a chance.

"I was having a particularly dark moment of homesickness and self-pity one day as I was living in India. I decided to drive my scooter to our market to buy vegetables for dinner. When I was parking I saw a woman my age who looked just like me except she was Indian. She was begging with a naked baby on her hip. In that instant, I realized I could have easily been born into her situation instead of my own: poor, uneducated, unable to feed my children. It's only by the grace of God that He has gifted me with what I have today: a loving family, an education, work, the list continues... I believe God put that woman in my path to teach me this lesson which has transformed my perspective and gave me a calling to spend my life giving opportunities to women like the one by the vegetable stand."

Though Ana grew up in a village in Guatemala where jobs were scarce, her family worked hard to send her to school. This opportunity gave her the courage to dream of how she could make an impact in her village. She launched an artisan business that creates dignified jobs for women. Since 2011, Ana has partnered with Noonday Collection to design beautiful, hand woven scarves. Now Ana's business is thriving – and so are families in her community.

Melissa is a Noonday Ambassador. After a mission trip to Ethiopia, Melissa prayed for an opportunity to use her gifts to impact others. Becoming an Ambassador has been an answer to this prayer, Melissa says. Last summer, Noonday Collection invited a group of Ambassadors to travel to Guatemala to meet Ana and our other artisan partners. Melissa was one of the women who joined this journey and heard Ana's story of courage. This experience empowered Melissa to become a bold advocate: I want my daughters to see me use my gifts for good. I love telling them Ana's story. I know one day they too will have the courage to make a difference. Getting to connect the Ambassadors has been transformative for Ana, too: knowing that we have these women as partners motivates us to dream bigger!

GO RINGS

Ring by ring, we fund purpose driven travel. Go. Do. Good.

Hi! We're Dru & Darcie. We're Texans & travelers. We're makers & givers.

We weren't trying to start a business when we started making rings — they were originally just a tool to help fund-raise for an 11-month mission trip Darcie took to 11 countries. But, alas, people are awesome. The rings and mission were contagious. After the rings unexpectedly funded the whole trip, they kept selling and boom - we have a business.

Through these rings we've found a little, golden, tangible solution to a problem for most missionaries: raising funds. Fundraising can be an awkward burden even for passionate, well-equipped adventurers. We're all about sharing the joy we've found in fundraising and enabling others to go spread the good news Matthew 28:19-style.

Every YouWood product makes an impact by sharing a percentage of the profit with one of three causes: food for the hungry, freedom for slaves and care for orphans. What IF God is calling you to something BIG? We believe that He is. He is calling you to a world-changing kind of thing. You have a purpose, and that purpose is wrapped tightly around the heart of God. You are a rescued life sent to rescue others. You have been set free to free others. Your purpose is to engage the world, with all of its brokenness, and change it. YouWood was created to give everyone the chance to put to their feet to their purpose through their purchases.

IF no one else would, would you? Would you stand in the gap for the poor? Would you use your resources, your time, your platform and your spending to show the broken in our world that you see them; that they matter? What would happen IF you decided to fully live in the created purpose for your life? The hungry, the enslaved and the orphaned live in fear that no one will hear them, no one will respond and no one will choose to change their future. But what IF you did?

Show our world that "When no one else would: YOUWOOD".

Since our inception in 2007, KK intl. has challenged the traditional forms of apparel production and sought to create products in a way that values people. For most of the women who make our items, it is the first consistent employment they have ever had. We supplement their employment with a robust three-year education curriculum, and one-on-one mentorship for their ongoing development. This holistic approach is what generates true empowerment. We don't stop there. Whether created in Uganda or Peru, every piece is hand-signed by the woman who made it. Showcasing their newly learned literacy by spelling their own name is one of the many feats they accomplish in the act of putting their pen to the label. Today, there is a growing conversation around the impact of our purchases on the world around us. At KK intl., we are reimagining the relationship between you, the consumer, and the producer. By providing a window into the production process, as well as the specific individual who makes each item, you are able to connect with the global community in new ways. As such, you are changing the value systems that define your clothing

The May Designs brand was started when logo designer, Mica May, couldn't find the perfect notebook. A graphic designer by trade, she designed a few that were just the right size and were a little more fashion forward than anything she could find. After a few months of carrying them around, people took notice and wanted to buy them, so she designed and launched a selling her first retail product: May Books. In the past six years, she has grown the company beyond notebooks into a lifestyle brand including stationery and photo books and will be expanding beyond paper into textiles, fashion and home decor in the coming year. May Designs prides itself in making every aspect of their notebooks fully customizable - including fonts, cover patterns and inside page designs. The notebooks and photo books feature sewn binding and canvas covers, which makes them extra durable. The May Designs design studio based in Austin, TX and their team has grown to a staff of twelve. As a wife and mother of three toddlers, Mica is always striving to find the perfect balance between running a business and being a mom. One seamless way she's been able to blend the two is with the Rise School Art Collection of notebooks. Her son, Jackson, 6 years old, who has Down syndrome, inspired a collection to help raise awareness and resources to support early childhood intervention and education for kids with special needs. All of the proceeds from these patterns are given back and have been wildly successful with the May Designs customers! Mica and her husband Jonathan have been married for 10 years and live in Austin with their three kids.

There are times when worship overflows easily and effortlessly from a heart full of gratitude and praise. Yet, there are other times when God seems far and we feel we have nothing left to offer.
